

Create a welcoming exterior for your home

Friday, March 20, 2015

Your home's front door entry is the focal point when someone visits your home. You don't have to spend big to make a large impression. With a small bit of elbow grease and some basic tools you can make a big difference

Hardware

Think house numbers, the entry door lock, and light fittings overhead light. These elements can all add style and interest. Most people inherit them from the previous owner and forget about them or add elements as needed.

By thinking of these as a set that function collectively you can upgrade your home. Brass elements on a traditional home, brushed nickel on a more contemporary home. Replace that rusty light fitting with something new.

Your front Door

We often forget to clean off grimy marks around the door handle or to polish the metal fixtures. If you are feeling more adventurous paint the door a new colour or if the doors lacks personality replace the door with something that fits your style better. Doors Direct allows you to order your new entrance door online and it will be delivered directly to your home.

Perfect Symmetry

Symmetry is simple to arrange and is pleasing to the eye. Use pairs of sidelights or pairs of planters to create a symmetrical composition

Lighting

Low voltage or solar landscape lighting provides security and makes an impact to your home's curb appeal. Accent trees or illuminate the path.

Create a garden

A container garden is a quick and affordable way to create a welcoming entrance. Add colour with containers from the nursery filled with bright annuals such as impatiens, petunias or begonias
